

What Happens When You Support No Kid Hungry?

No Kid Hungry's singular focus is ending childhood hunger in America. Our work does not just feed a child today, we're making sure children in the United States never go hungry again. While emergency food plays a critical role in providing food during a time of crisis, this solution remains temporary. Nutrition programs like School Breakfast, Summer Meals, and Afterschool Meals, have the potential to connect kids to healthy food, every day of the year, and transform their lives and their futures.

How are we ending childhood hunger?

Helping schools make breakfast a part of the school day to reach more kids facing hunger in the classroom.

Expanding the programs serving kids meals during the summer and after the school day ends, when kids are most vulnerable to hunger.

Teaching families to stretch their food dollars and cook healthy meals through our nutrition education programs.

Investing in first-rate local organizations to build their capacity to feed kids where they live, learn and play.

Working with lawmakers to pass policies that make it easier for kids to get the healthy meals they need, every day.

The funds donated go to both our national strategy and local investments.

Your investment is helping to feed kids today, but it does so much more than that by supporting a sustainable and replicable solution that is ending childhood hunger in America – once and for all. Childhood hunger looks different in different places, we have strategies that match the challenges for every state and every community within it.

No Kid Hungry's Work Is

NATIONAL AND STRATEGIC

- National lawmakers turn to us for counsel on ending childhood hunger in this country.
- Our No Kid Hungry Center for Best Practices equips community leaders from all 50 states with a comprehensive road map to end childhood hunger in their communities.
- Advocates from across the nation attend our summits, webinars and trainings to learn how to feed kids.
- Over a million actions – from sending letters to the editor to calling their member of Congress – are taken by our supporters each year to lend their voice to the movement to end childhood hunger.

LOCAL AND TARGETED

- We issue thousands of grants each year to schools and community groups to purchase equipment – like meal trucks, refrigerators and other equipment – so they can serve healthy food to kids in need.
- We fund the very best local organizations – like schools, food banks and community groups – working to end childhood hunger in all 50 states.
- Low-income families know where to find food for their kids because of our localized awareness campaigns.
- Local meal providers – like summer meals sites, afterschool meals programs, and schools – turn to us for guidance to help them launch or improve their programs so they can feed more kids.

Our model is working.

Since the start of the campaign in 2010, No Kid Hungry and our partners have connected kids in need with an additional one billion meals and counting.

Now that's a smart investment.
